

Davis Polk Financial Services Regulatory Reform Tool—Post Midterm Election Edition

By The Davis Polk FinReg Team on November 19, 2018

POSTED IN ADMINISTRATIVE LAW, ANTI-MONEY LAUNDERING, BANK CAPITAL, BANK REGULATION, CFPB, CFTC, COMMUNITY REINVESTMENT ACT, COST-BENEFIT ANALYSIS, DODD-FRANK, ECONOMIC SANCTIONS, FDIC, FEDERAL RESERVE, FINTECH, FSOC, LEGISLATION, LIQUIDITY, OCC, OFAC, STRESS TESTING, SWAP REGULATION, TLAC, U.S. BASEL III, U.S. CONGRESS, VOLCKER RULE

Financial services regulatory reform will continue to evolve in 2018 and 2019. As we observe the changing legislative landscape, here is the Post Midterm Election Edition of our reference tool, which provides context and summarizes current developments across a range of key regulatory areas, agencies and actors. We will continue to track these issues and will provide our next update early in the new year.

The Davis Polk Financial Services Regulatory Reform Tool is available here.